GRAN CHACO RAILWAY.

Nothing can afford greater proof of the present wondrous march and progress of affairs in this country than the departure of Sr Gonzales with his Secretary, Mr Hume, in the Elbe to-day, to arrange in London for the construction of a railway from the city of Santa Fe into the heart of the Gran Chaco, fifteen leagues west of the Gran Chaco Colony of Espin.

The high representation of Sr. Gonzales, who was one of the Ministers of the Avellaneda Government, the great practical experience of Mr Hume, who has just concluded one of the best works ever made in the Plate—the Ayacucho Railway—and the inexhaustible fertility of the splendid camps through which the proposed line is to run, all lend to the enterprize an importance which even in London will be appreciated. We regard the scheme as perhaps the greatest that as yet has been brought before the public, and pregnant with results which few of us can adequately measure. It is not two lines of foreign steamers, but a dozen, that Rosario will require, if the monarch of the age, the Locomotive, pierces the Chaco and brings to our seaboard the productions of a soil which, for fertility, no spot in Europe or North America can rival. Along its route the European farmers may grow every crop that Nature has given to man, and in a soil of such exhuberant fertility that the black alluvial earth averages from 48 to 60 inches in depth!

The line proposed is to run from the city of Santa Fe in a straight direction to the American colony of Espin, touching at the village of Guadaloupe, and within a league of the colonies of Pujol, Cayestacita, Emilia and San Justo, terminating for the present at the lands just sold by the Santa Fe Government to Messrs. Murrieta of London, say 55 leagues distant from the city of Santa Fe, but with the ulterior view of continuing the line through that angle of the Chaco up to the Province of Santiago del Estero, which is now raising its head in the sugar line, and destined in a few years to be a great producing district. The cost of the line, as provisionally arranged with the Government of Santa Fe, is to be from 17,500 to 18,500 pats. gold per kilometre, and one of the great advantages which the contractors will have in making this line is that the land will cost them nothing, and the best sleepers that the world produces are all along the route, the camps being studded with those matchless hard woods. Moreover, there will be no expensive works of art, no rivers to cross, no hills to tunnel; a level, fertile plain, covered with the most beautiful pasturages; and parties who have just returned from an expedition to Espin state that it was really most astonishing to see the condition of the cattle, beyond all doubt the fattest in the whole Republic.

Santa Fe has always justly enjoyed a preeminence amongst us in the line of agricultural colonies; she has set the rest of the Republic an example which many of the sister provinces, including B. Aires, are at last about to follow. We see in the scheme before us a new development in the way of colonies; and before the rails are laid to the Murrieta lands we shall see new colonies spring up in the Chaco, along the route, that will outnumber all the previous colonies in that province, and add a wealth to the trade of Rosario of which the last couple of wheat years up there can afford an inkling.

If the present Santa Fe colonies, prosperous and happy as they are, number over 50,000 souls, before the train reaches Espin we may calculate 100,000 farmers will have new homesteads on the new route; and every effort of the Nat. Government and the Government of Santa Fe should be used to carry out this magnificent scheme which opens up to the immigrants the richest and most fertile lands on the face of the habitable globe.

The proposed line will run through the fine estancia of Messrs B.S. Hale and Co., and have a station at the town of Almagro. It runs all along the high lands of the Chaco, and its nearest point to the Parana will be the American estancia and colony of Mr Benitz, some 18 leagues of land called Espin; the station there will be distant from the Alexandra colony about 5 leagues. Reaching Espin the line strikes out in a new South-westerly direction, and runs out about 15 leagues to the Murrieta lands at the Cañada Cabeza del Toba. These Murrieta lands cover an area of 400 sq. leagues, and stretch from that point back along the railway route to the colony of Colindrina, nearly opposite the California colony. The fine River Javier runs parallel with the road between the railway and the Parana, and Dr. Romany's steam saw-mill and colony is some 11 leagues farther out than Espin, and the Reconquista, a Government colony, some 3 or 4,000 colonists, is some 16 leagues farther out, whilst the great Ocampo colony, one of the largest in the country, is fully 40 leagues farther out.

We hope in a few days to have in our office a map of this new country, with the colonies and estancias and line of railway marked thereon. The land purchased by Messrs Murrieta of the Santa Fe Government cost 1500 pats gold. Sr Zavalla has about 100 leagues which will be bisected by the railway, and the average price of land out there is now between 3 and 4000 pats p. league; a few years ago the lands were selling for so many paper dollars. Verily, the Argentine Republic moves.

NATIONAL PROGRESS

One of the greatest of errors is to attribute the present expansion of Argentine affairs to the new Railway loan, and yet on frequent occasions we have heard it said that our new progress will last until the loan is spent. People who so narrow their judgment of this country will ever remain in the rear.

The present improved position of Argentine affairs is solely and absolutely due to two solemn facts—

1st. The abolition of the Indians and the consequent gigantic extension of our frontier.

2nd. The capitalization of Buenos Ayres.

Without a new railway loan or extranus aid in any shape, these two great events are ample in themselves to procure our present improved condition; but, if to these two national levers of prosperity we add the tide of foreign capital that since last October has flowed into this market, sweeping it clear of all our national stocks; if to these two great primary agents we unite an improved ability of administration and a gradually progressive industry in the interior, and ten millions of ready money coming in gold to us from Europe, we discover that there is nothing so very remarkable in all our progress.

A French merchant remarked on the Bolsa last Saturday that, to his mind, the Argentine Republic is only just born, and we fully coincide with him. The resources of the Plate are just dawning upon a primary development. A few years peace and favourable seasons will fetch goals for this country that scarcely anyone anticipates. Everything in the Republic may be safely said to be undervalued, and if it is given to us to write in these columns in the year 1884, we shall fling open the page of this paper to present our readers with the two pictures. Land in 1884 will be as impossible to purchase at 50,000 dollars a league as to-day it is at 10,000. Cows, that are considered up to the skies at $260 al 'corte' will be worth £15 a head for shipment to Europe, and territories which to-day are ignored by even the most enterprizing of our land brokers will be cut up and divided into cattle-farms and estancias.

In the old order of things a new loan was a great affair; it paved our streets with sovereigns and our quintas and cabbage gardens with paper dollars; but not a penny of it ever reached the Sauce Corto or the Rio Negro; to-day it is but a subsidiary element; we absorb it in our new railways, new estancias, new cattle rodeos, new sheepfarms, investments that are able to bear its weight and meet its service; it may possibly tend to accelerate a progress which it is as impotent to create as the people who lent the money.

When the Public Work's loan was negotiated the progress of the Argentine Republic, its industries, its advancement and its growth were in a flower pot. The soil was good, but the plant could never grow beyond the dimensions of the pot. To-day the growth of the country is a young spreading tree, planted in the earth, with 44,000 square leagues of the richest soil to hold its roots; that tree is growing faster than most people imagine; its branches are spreading, and it is cared by men who seek to make its branches spread to the uttermost limits of the Republic. Spite of political divisions, spite of the rancour of overthrown partyism, spite of the dissensions and disunion that have so long characterised the Argentine people, the material growth of the country is so rapid that it overcomes every obstacle; and in the meantime of a prosperity which none a year ago looked forward to, people forget the political past in contemplating the industrial future. General Roca and his Government rise on the high tide of a prosperity never before witnessed in this hemisphere; it is bearing him up over all the political rocks of the past River Plate, and carrying him on to placid waters where the storms of political localism are unknown.

Trifles light as air often indicate more than events considered the most solemn, and last week a matter occurred in this market which speaks as eloquently of Argentine progress as President Roca's splendid message. Dn Cesario Ordonez, agent of the North Central Railway, arrived down, to purchase for the railway works four thousand spades and shovels, and he reports to the Minister that they are not to be had in the market. Thus whilst remingtons are for sale in every shop and every warehouse for half their cost, Spades and Shovels are at a high premium. We point to this simple fact to correct the erring judgment of many about this country. So long as spades and shovels are at a premium there is no fear for the nation; we have survived the 'Tiro' and remington epoch, and are now in the spade and shovel period, and it is the spade and the shovel, and the cows and the sheep, that are lifting the Republic to a premium both at home and abroad.

When Argentine Stocks were at their lowest in London!

When Argentine Credit was dragged down in the mire both at home and abroad.

When the blackest clouds hung over the Plate, and everything assumed the deepest gloom, we had but one advice for our friends, and that advice we now repeat

Buy! Buy! Buy!

THE CITY IMPROVEMENT WORKS.

The continuation of these works should claim as much attention as the amalgamation of the Provincial and National Banks: our city is each day becoming more populous; our streets, in some parts of the town and at certain hours of the day, are so crowded with traffic that one is reminded of streets in London, Paris, or New York: the city is growing as rapidly as the country and, if some timely steps are not taken to conclude our half-finished City Improvement Works, we may yet have occasion to deplore the delay. No period could be more favourable for the resumption of these works than at present, when everything smiles on the nation, and the period has been aptly termed Golden or Augustan. The Works when finished will give a handsome revenue, whilst to-day they give nothing; and, concurring as we do with the opinions expressed in the following article of the Nacion, we gladly translate and reproduce same:—

"We are about to make a serious assertion and are prepared to prove it.—Never has any office of our administration issued a document so full of glaring errors as that which the Water Works Commissioners have just published with the conditions and estimates for bids for the Drainage Works.

"We have proofs as numerous and irrefutable as Truth itself, but, as it is impossible, in a single article, to deal with all the errors in the hundred and odd pages of the pamphlet, although we mean to point to them all in due course, we shall now confine ourselves to some few observations sufficient to convince the public that the Commissioners know nothing of what they are about, and that the absurdities contained in the publication we refer to are a disgrace to the country and a certain danger to the city.

"From a legal point of view, it asserts that it is in conformity with the estimates sanctioned in 1878, whereas it is in gross violation of them, suppressing some buildings which are indispensable for the success of the works, and adding others not authorised by the law, and which will cost several millions of dollars.

"From an economic point of view, it is a chaos. In each section indispensable details are suppressed, and if they are adopted after the works are finished they will cost a deal of money uselessly spent. For other works that will cost millions, and the extent of which cannot be fixed, a price is called for, not only for the unity of measure but for the whole work. Many technical works, under the charge of the directing engineer, and for which he will be paid commission, are also exacted from the bidders, thus paying twice for the same thing. The number of errors and contradictory data will force the contractors to enter into obligations on false bases, and the Commissioners will have to pay heavy indemnity.

"From the point of view of the success of the works, if they are built on the Commissioners' conditions, they will certainly prove a 'fiasco.' The main discharging sewer, which should run out to the south of Quilmes, will be unable to empty the sewage, and even if this were remedied it will not flow away, owing to difficulties that were not foreseen. Other omissions will render the drains useless in an important part of the city, and even if this were set right, at a great cost of time, money, and the public health, there are still further mistakes that would leave us exposed daily to inundations of sewage.

"The attempt at an extra flow of pipe-water for flushing the sewers will also be a failure.

"From a common sense point of view this official publication is no laughing matter, but quite the reverse. In some places the works are to be finished in 20 months, under heavy penalties, and in others 3 and even 4 years are allowed. In one part a certain area is laid down for certain works, and in the very next page a greater area is stipulated for part of them and a lesser for the rest. In one part certain materials are to be supplied by the contractors, and in another it is said that the Commissioners are to provide them. It even goes to the length of calling for bids for works that are already built. Tenders are called for, in different pages, for the same work on different plans, incompatible with each other, and none of which are admissible.

"Let us cite an example of this latter blunder. The heavy machinery has to be erected on the beach at the Boca, to pump the sewage to the south of Quilmes: naturally such machinery will require a special building suitable for it. Nevertheless, instead of calling for tenders for such a building the Commissioners adopt as a model the little Water Works building at the Recoleta, and, for machinery more or less superficial, order foundations of 12 metres in depth to be dug! and, as if this absurdity were not enough, on pages 93 to 103 they again order the same building to be equal in size to that for more heavy pumping machinery, which has to be built at the Recoleta.

"Contradictory dimensions are thus stipulated for two different buildings, with the peculiarity that neither are in any way adapted for the work to be done.

"The foregoing is merely one of the many proofs we intend to afford the public of the unusual incompetence of those directing the great City Improvement Works. We do not at all consider that all the Commissioners are responsible for these errors, as we know how things are being managed; but, let the responsibility rest on whom it may, the broad fact remains that the credit of the country, the money of the nation and the health of the city of Buenos Aires are being seriously tampered with.

EDUCATIONAL REPORT.

Dr Pizarro, our talented Minister of Public Instruction, has presented his important report to Congress. The Minister corroborates what we have asserted all along respecting the system of education adopted in the Republic. The public men of the country, in their haste to reach a superior stage of education, have overlooked its foundations: thus, Argentines have established a college and an academy for the superior professional and scientific studies, and have disregarded the Primary School and the common education of the people: they have founded an Astronomical Observatory, the talk and admiration of the scientific world, and contempt, indifference, and neglect have stifled all efforts to create a School of Arts and Trades. Verily, the present system of education in the Republic reminds one of an instance when a protessor tried to impress on a boy a system of logarithms before he could carry out an addition. Thus, however scientific the education in some departments may be, the system is only convenient to individuals: meanwhile, the people in general lack the foundations of democracy, a solid primary instruction. We have put the cart before the horses, and Minister Pizarro must now find a counterpoise to the present state of affairs.

Whilst we were scrutinizing the heavens, closely watching the evolutions of stars and comets, calculating the angles of incidence and reflection, thousands of individuals, for want of a School of Arts and Trades, where they might have learnt to sole boots, mend chairs, set type, cut cloth and drive engines, instead of quoting Virgil and Kant, were marching in serried columns through our streets, striking out for rebellion. A better education, more solid principles, a clear insight of mine and thine, of right and wrong, of duty and obedience, are the only counterpoise for such disorganized elements. The great boon of education amongst the people is the notion of good and duty they acquire on the school benches, and which teaches them to seek their own prosperity and that of the country in its industrial progress and obedience to constituted authority.

If we note a melancholy ignorance in the masses, the country cannot expect much from those who receive the enlightened education so extravagantly fostered in every province. Well may one say of the rising generation, what Billault asserted in 1863:—

"With melancholy feelings we see the numerous youth of France, breathing imagination and energy, launched body and soul into journalistic life, into romance and pamphlet careers, living in expectancy of disturbance and social agitation to secure their future, instead of turning their bright qualities to account in the positive labors of life. The evil is great, but the vicious system of education is the only culpable party.

"What instruction have these young men achieved? Have they imbibed notions adequate to show them how to meet the necessities of everyday life? Have their energies been grooved into useful professional careers? No, by no means: with Greece and Rome as models, as idea, their imagination has been excited, their passions have been raised from the arena of actual reality, and the pen is the only implement they have been taught to wield. Emerging from the benches, they dream of societies, of races that are gone, never to come again, and they consecrate their pen to their dreams."

The words of the Frenchman exactly fit Argentine youth, whether educated in Cordoba, that silent city of the Fakirs, or in Buenos Aires, the favourite nook of French scepticism and humour. Dr. Pizarro never said a truer word than when he asserted that through this want of uniformity and harmony in studies, of system and purpose in the instruction of the country, the nation simply squanders its treasures in barren efforts. The present Minister of Instruction is the first one who sees the evil, and, it is to be hoped, that he will resort to the measures which will remove it and completely change the educational system throughout the Republic.

THE NATIONAL ACADEMY.

The magazine of the National Academy of Cordoba is full of interesting matters, referring to science: strange to say over three-quarters of this valuable magazine are in French, the remainder in Spanish. The fact points to the great majority of the foreign element in the scientific atmosphere of the Republic. This singularity is invaluable, as the contents of the publication will be understood in all parts of the civilized world. The contents are most important and will no doubt also be interesting to the general bulk of readers.

Mr P A Conil has a long description in French on the 'Nouveaux cas de Myiasis dans la Province de Cordoba et dans la Republique de Venezuela.' Our fair readers would shudder if they perused the pages, referring to two young Cordobese girls afflicted by this terrible malady—one died, but the other survived. A fly, which Mr Conil scientifically calls a 'Calliphore anthropophage,' entered their nasal organs and deposed eggs in the pituitary membrane. The progress and cure of the disease, the sufferings of the victims and the development of the fatal eggs, are scientific matters of the greatest moment, which we leave to the medical columns of a magazine. People should beware when they sleep out of doors, keep their mouth firmly closed, and both nose and ears well stopped with cotton to prevent the introduction of any insect. Happily the fly in question does not abound here, and is to be found only in some Interior Provinces, in the Republic of Venezuela, and the unhealthy climate of Guiana.

Next comes an important description in Spanish of the Flora in the Southern territories, under the heading 'Sertum Patagonicum.' Here botany reigns supreme, and we much fear our readers care very little about dicotiledons or acrogens, so the least said in the columns of a newspaper about so varied a subject the better.

The irrepressible locusts have a separate and very long chapter to themselves by P A Conil. The history of these destructive insects is linked to great misfortunes, and therefore most interesting, as it takes us back to the infancy of humanity. In the very remotest antiquity, men knew, to their cost, the locust plague. The tenth chapter of the Exodus in the Pentateuch describes how the locusts devoured all vegetation in Egypt, and how a strong wind blew them all into the Red Sea. The Hebrews used to feed on them, whilst their great powers of multiplication were admired. The Israelites tried to get rid of them by shaking the trees to make them fly or fall; they used to heap them up and bury them when on the ground.

Aristotele in one of his works refers to locusts, whilst the older Pliny states that in the island of Lemnos (to-day Lemnoos Stalimare) every man was obliged by law to deposit before the magistrates a certain quantity of dead locusts. Saint Jerome was terrified when he saw the wholesale destruction made by these terrible invaders in Syria. Mouffett states that in 591 the crops in Italy were destroyed by locusts, and in Venice 30,000 people died of hunger.

Many historians and naturalists note the invasions of locusts: amongst many we may refer to Jean Thurnmacher, Mezeray, Orelius Virey, Jackson, Barrow, Levaillant, &c. In 170 before Christ Capua was invaded and all the crops were destroyed: the same catastrophe occurred in 189 in Italy and Gaul: in 852 in Bohemia: in 885 in Gaul again: 1040 in Spain: in 1542 in Hungary: in 1600 and in 1690 in Russia: in Wallachia and Moldavia in 1747 and 1748: in 1749 in a great many parts of Europe. Charles XII. of Sweden, after the defeat of Pultawa, had to suspend the march of his army, owing to the arrival of a cloud of locusts, which blinded both men and horses. In Transsylvania the troops were called out in 1780 to fight the locusts.

In 1797 locusts settled in the South of Africa, where a strong wind blew them into the sea, but the waves rolled the dead insects in billions on the coasts in a putrid state, and the stench was such that it pervaded the country 140 miles away from the coast.

The fear the people entertained against locusts arose not only from the threatening spectre of famine, but also from the ensuing epidemics that followed in their tracks, &c. Augustin says that 800,000 people died on the North coast of Africa, by the infection spread and arising from the putrified locusts on the coast. Argentines also know by bitter experience the evils that accompany locusts, and in the Santa Fe colonies their reminiscenses are yet fresh.

Mr. Oscar Doering has an important chapter on the study of barometrical height in the Argentine Republic, and the magazine ends with a list of books and their authors' names, acquired by the Academy's library during the last year. Books have poured in from all European countries, which is the very best proof of the value of the Institution in the eyes of the scientific world.

ANOTHER RAILWAY EXTENSION.

Our friends in the North of the Province will read with high pleasure the following note of the President of the Western Railway Board in reference to a most important extension of the line. There can be no doubt as to the approval of Congress.

Western Railway Offices,
B. Ayres, May 10, 1881.

To Don Francisco Uriburu, Provincial Finance Minister.

I have the honour to lay before you on the part of our Board, the request that you will obtain the sanction of Congress for the construction of a branch to connect this railway with the Central Argentine.

The Board has been preparing plans to this effect since it became aware that the Projected Law recommended by the Public Works Committee of the National Chamber of Deputies will be laid before that House to-morrow. This project proposes to grant to a private company the right to build a junction from the Western Railway at Pergamino, with a guarantee of 7 per cent on the capital.

The Board of this railway have good reason to believe that they can build this line without any guarantee whatever and, besides, are much interested in carrying it out, not only because it will help to develop the wealth of this Province, as well as of other States of the Republic, but because the interests confided to their charge demand it.

There is nothing to be gained by stopping this line at Pergamino, or handing over to a private company a work which can be carried out with more advantage to the country by this Board, which has already given many proofs of zealous desire to serve well the district, through which the line runs. The capital invested in this line is not subject to the exigencies of private capital, which ensures greater advantages to the public, while fomenting agriculture and new industries. A branch from Pergamino to the Central Argentine Railway would be exactly the same length as that now being laid down to said town, and it is needless to say that it is being well laid down.

The plans for a line from Pergamino to the Central Argentine junction will be ready in three months after the permission is given, and the whole line finished in one year more.

The Board, by an unanimous vote, have authorized me to call your attention to this work, which the province of Buenos Ayres can carry out, without any charge whatever for the National Treasury, while connecting, with its own capital, the capital of the Republic and the provinces of the Interior.

Begging you to give this matter your earliest attention,

I salute you with great respect,

Faustino Jorge.
Narcisso del Valle.

ABOLITION OF FORCED CURRENCY.

We live in an era of projects; each day brings forth some new scheme, some draft of a new law, until the public mind becomes so enveloped in proposed reforms that the people lose faith in the wisdom and experience of their legislators, and the conviction becomes general that all these projects will end in nothing, save the strengthening of the abuses which they were framed to remove. As, however, generally speaking, the last project is considered the best, we give our readers the following scheme presented to Congress for the abolition of forced currency. That it will become law we very much doubt, inasmuch as the project of the National Minister of Hacienda, Dr Romero, has yet to be introduced: it aims at the same reform, namely, the abolition of the forced currency, but, we understand, is more comprehensive, and would have been presented before now, but that Dr Romero is anxious to consult the wishes of the Provincial Government on the matter, and secure its approval before presenting it to Congres.

The Senate and Chamber of Deputies, &c.

Art. 1. To close the account between the National Government and the Provincial Bank, the former shall undertake the conversion and amortization of the 15,000,000 hard dollars of the Bank's emission which it guaranteed by virtue of the Act of 26th September 1876.

Art. 2. The National Treasury shall put a special seal on the notes of this emission that are paid into it, and also on those it may receive from private parties or the Bank itself, up to 15,000,000 pats., the debt of the National Government.

Art. 3. The Provincial Government and its Bank shall be discharged from any obligation to convert or amortize the notes so taken over by the National Government.

Art. 4. The Bank Directors shall arrange with the National Executive to check the amount of notes specially sealed by the Treasury.

Art. 5. The notes so sealed shall be legal tender over the whole Republic and be received in the National offices at their face value, excepting for 50 per cent of Customs Duty, which must be paid in coin of legal tender.

Art. 6. The Act of 26th September 1876 is hereby repealed in all its clauses.

Art. 7. The Treasury shall cancel monthly an amount of these notes equivalent to a twelfth part of the Customs receipts.

Art. 8. The Treasury shall emit six millions hard dollars in Bonds bearing 6 per cent interest and 1 per cent accumulative amortization by drawings, at par.

Art. 9. The proceeds of the sale of Public Lands shall be applied to the interest and amortization of these Bonds in legal tender coin.

Art. 10. These Bonds can be given in exchange at par to holders of the National notes who desire to convert them in this way, the notes to be immediately cancelled and destroyed.

Art. 11. The Executive can issue these Bonds in a lump sum, or by degrees, but always to an annual amount necessary to cancel at least 1,500,000 of the notes.

COMMERCIAL NEWS

May 14th

The heavy gold purchases cash by the gold King advanced prices 10 cents on yesterday's closing rates, but for this it is probable gold would have flattened, owing to the amount offered for cash sale, but the King bought up nearly everything, and the cash sales reached 329,150 pats. For 31st there was also a large business done, opening at 28.60, rising to 28.70 and closing at 28.65. Sales for August were made at 28.50, and for June at 28.50. The business of the day nearly reached a million patacons.

Cedulas that dropped yesterday rose to-day and were done cash at 97⅜ and 97½, closing for the end of month at 97⅜, and for June at 97; the stock rules firm and in demand.

Emprestito Popular two sales at 95, and Bonos Provinciales at 4 premium, which shows another rise.

May 16th

The week has opened on a very hard gold market, and prices for cash advanced from 28.75 to 28.80; the cash sales amounted to 59,747 pats. Prices for the end of the month advanced to 28.70, and for Saturday at 28.75. For June at 28.50 and for July at 28.45. From one cause or other there is a very strong demand for gold, there are rumours on 'Change about the very strong buyer, but we regard it as mere rumour. Gold for the rivers and for passengers is always in demand, and exchange rules so low that it is not extraordinary gold should be high. It may, however, interest the market to know that letters from London received per Gironde asking when the Hard Dollar coupons would be paid in gold in London were shewn to-day to President Roca who replied that on the 1st of January, 1882, was the proper answer to send to the people in London.

Cedulas rule firm at 97½ for cash and end of month.

National Bank Soares ruled flat under the pressure of sales by two parties who, according to the Bolsa news, are selling out. For cash there was very little done, but for the end of the month and June about 3,000 shares sold; prices for June show a drop of 1½ on Saturday's rate. The stock shows much sympathy with gold, and we note that whenever gold advances shares drop, as was the case to-day.

There was rather a better feeling in the wool market this morning, and one of our leading export firms has evidently received fresh orders, as it bought on Saturday and to-day; the news from the London auction is that prices are maintained, the wools selling freely, and large attendance buyers. It was feared by the houses here that as the auction opened with a drop before half the wool was sold prices would show a further fall, but such has not proved the case, the wools move off, and it really looks as if bottom has been at last touched in the European wool market.

May 17th

Dr Romero, our new Minister of Hacienda turned the gold market to-day; his project, although not yet published, is known to a very influential circle and considered the best and most effective of all, and the safest and best step for the Government and Congress to take to abolish 'curso forzoso'. Associated with this project come the news that on the 20th instant the Provincial Bank will begin to discount pagares in gold, and some parties on 'Change had the news that telegrams had been sent to London to send out gold. Thus the market opened this morning under a tremendous pressure, and gold fell slap bang 15 cents on yesterday's prices; the differences between cash and time prices are so very wide that it is easy to read the opinion of the market, and the whole ring believes that next month the great break in gold will begin.

Gold opened at 28.75, and closed at 28.65 cash, 74,306 sold. For the end of the month over half a million sold, opening at 28.78, and closing at 28 55, sales for July and August at 28.30, sales of the day 1,636,306.

Cedulas rule very firm, and as the Prov. Bank now only allows 4 per cent on deposit, and the Cedulas give 8, many think the stock will go to a premium.

Nat. Bank shares rather dull, speculators seem afraid to sell, and but a very small business done, only 731 shares sold, cash 93⅜, end of month 94. Nat. Treasury bills at 10⅝, being their highest yet, and young National Bonds 1876, a small lot at 88½; the stock is cheap at 10 p. cent higher.

May 18, 1881.

The Gold market opened this morning under a species of reaction. Prices dropped so suddenly yesterday that there was very little else to expect, and parties who have large transactions for the end of the month availed of the drop to cover their short sales. The Project influence was, perhaps, less felt to-day, although we think it right to advise the market that Dr. Romero, our Hacienda Minister, has taken the Curso Forzoso question in hand: his proposed law will not be presented to Congress until first submitted to the Provincial Government and Provincial Bank Board, and approved. Merchants and others who still have the Curso Forzoso dust in their eyes will hardly fail to see that a measure introduced by the National Government, and supported and ratified by the Provincial Government and Provincial Bank, cannot fail to prove a success, and whatever speculation may exist in these winter months, the end of the year will, doubtless, bring us the long-looked-for return to specie payments. Even the men who crowd the Bolsa and never can, nor never will, be able to speculate save on the ruin of the country and the consequent rise in gold, cannot be so utterly obtuse as to ignore that a good season this Spring will lift the country out of all its checks and troubles, without even the aid of a project or a law. All the advices going to Europe now will announce the fact that on January 1st 1882 the country will pay gold.

Gold opened for cash at 28.65 and closed at 28.60; only 53,000 pats sold. For the end of the month 362,000 pats sold, opening at 28.55, rising to 28.70 and closing at opening rate. For June 300,000 pats. sold, opening at 28.35, rising to 28.40 and closing at 28.35, and for July at 28.30. Total sales, 891,000 pats.

The gold market opened this morning very firm at 28.70 cash, but closed at 28.65; only 30,500 pats sold cash and for end of month 263,000 pats., opening at 28.55, rising to 28.70 and closing at 28.65. For June prices opened at 28.45 and closed at 28.40. But the whole day's business was but a small affair, only 528,300 pats sold.

The gold market, spite of all the efforts of the bulls, has a weak tendency, and is merely maintained by the ring speculation requirements. The whole market hangs on a Paris telegram; money is so cheap in Europe, the credit of the country so good, and the price at which the loan was contracted for so reasonable that it is not probable any difficulties created by opposing bankers will succeed; nevertheless the business has certainly hung fire long enough, and it is to be hoped that the Minister of Hacienda will push the matter to have no further delay.

Cedulas are fast marching on to par and rose to-day to 97¾, at which price 34,000 bought, and more buyers offering. The stock is regarded the best and most convenient to hold ready money in.

Nat. Bank shares were beared strongly for cash, but did not give away an inch, 533 shares sold cash. For the end of the month only 100 sold at 93¾, and for end of June 900 at 94½. speculators are evidently afraid to sell, although the stock is by no means as buoyant as it was, but the weight of the month's liquidation hangs on the stock, and when this is removed we may look for further progress in so extremely speculative a security.

Nat. Treasury notes sold at 9 premium, and one large lot offered, but the holder has the temerity to ask 35 premium. Also in Nat. Bonds we note some small sale at very low price, and it is said amongst the brokers that these small sales are merely to establish quotations, 1000 sold at 90.

Roads and Bridg s have at last touched Par for the first time in their history; the stock, when first issued, had to get 8 per cent coupons attached to launch it at all. It is now at par, and very few of the principal holders in this market would sell under 5 per cent premium.

The gold market opened and closed weak; sales began cash at 28.65, and closed at 28.55. Prices for the end of the month were even more sustained than for cash, opening at 28.60, dropping to 28.55, and closing at 28.60; sales for June opening at 28.40, dropping to 28.30; for July and August 28.25. Sales of the day amounted to 963,428.

There is this to be said about the gold market that, although our stock of gold shows only a slight increase of $30,000 steg. brought by the steamers, still the opinion that 'curso forzoso' in this country is on its last legs has become so prevalent that the generality of that opinion must tell more on the market than even the landing on the mole head of a million of patacones. Those who try to stem the tide will inevitably lose; to-day gold fell, because it was hinted that some strong exporters are selling, and to sell gold to-day is to secure lower price for wool at the next clip. Wool, we feel convinced, has touched bottom in Europe, and letters have come out from Europe with orders to make contracts on present rates for the new clip.

Cedulas were beared to-day on time, and very large sales were made, but the stock rules firm as a rock, and difficult to buy save at advancing rates; price cash 98½

National Bank Shares ruled much firmer and look up; sales for June at 95.

Tramway Shares are brightening; sales to-day at 75.

Gold at after hours ruled much weaker, and it was quite evident to those who watched the current that something was up, and some strong parties selling. Minister Romero's project, it seems, will be sent to-morrow to Congress, and that so who have seen this project consider that it will reach the aim. We hear that at the Provincial Government House Governor Rocha and Minister Uriburu were occupied with it all day and approve of it. It provides for the issue of gold Nat. Bonds to pay the Provincial Bank, and will square all the difficulties of the 'curso forzoso' question.

The business going on in estancia land is beyond our ability to report; every day we hear of fresh sales, and Mr Rom is now selling land warrants, without the lands being located, at $30,000 m/c. per league, what cost the buyer last year only $10,000 m/c. For lands out at Italo 40,000 m/c per league are offered and refused, and for lands near Guinea 50,000 m/c per league has been refused by one party who holds 20 square leagues out there. It looks as if the Messrs Cernadas will make a fortune out of their purchase of 200 square leagues from Lincoln to Gainza, as all those lands are coming very rapidly to the front. We learn from an Englishman just arrived from Rio Cuarto that the lands up there are very splendid, and that some of the large estancieros are wire fencing their lands as fast as they can, but there is a great scarcity of skilled fencing labor, and any of those large contractors for the fencing of camps could make contracts for the fencing of 3 or 4 hundred leagues by taking a run up to Rio Cuarto. Our friend has promised us a paper on those lands, which will much interest our readers.

In another column will be found the important note of the Western Railway Board to the Provincial Government about the extension of the line from Pergamino to Rosario, a most important scheme, and one that will be self paying and needs no Government guarantee. We have no doubt that the Governor Dr Rocha and Minister Uriburu will lend to the measure their fullest support, which amounts to the carrying out of the scheme. To-day a meeting of Belgrano Tram shareholders was held; the fortunes of this Company seem on the mend.

Reader,
Do you suffer from Indigestion, Liver or Stomach Complaints? If so, you naturally wish to be cured, but you cannot be while you neglect to try a Holman Liver Pad. If the percentage of cures effected by it is any test of its value, no other remedy known to science can be compared to it,
If you allow prejudice to prevent you trying the Pad, you make a great mistake.

Montevideo 21st.

President Vidal has resigned. Situation most serious, and the gravest anxiety prevails.

Paris 21st.

Yesterday, the Deputies, after a hot debate, passed the 'scrutin de liste' Bill. In future the elections will be by departments instead of by districts as now.

RIOTS IN MONTEVIDEO

NEWSPAPER OFFICES SACKED.

(Telegram to Nacion)

Montevideo, 21st.

Last night we had terrible work. Mobs, headed by Belen, Flamand and others, paraded the streets, cheering for Santos, and crying 'Death to Constitutionalists and Blancos!'

They forced their way into the Razon office, firing shots and flourishing sticks. One compositor was killed, and one of the mob leaders wounded; they smashed all the type and the front of the building is full of bullet holes. The Pampa and Nacion office were broken open with hatchets and everything inside destroyed. Daniel Munoz saved himself by assuming a disguise.

The inhabitants are in a state of terror, and every house is closed.

The Democracia office escaped, but it publishes a severe article to-day, condemning the outrages.

The Heraldo's people also escaped through crying 'We are all Coloradios here!'

The houses are open to-day, and Dan. Munoz is driving about in a carriage. I hear that the Argentine Legation and Consulate are full of refugees.

More bad work is feared.

Santos has not withdrawn his resignation.

The Chambers were afraid to meet last night.

Zumaran is better.

REVIEW FOR EUROPE.

Since our last edition for abroad the public mind has been almost exclusively occupied with the numerous projects laid before Congress, by private members, for the abolition of forced currency and the establishing of a National State Bank by the amalgamation of the Nat. Bank and the Provincial Bank of B. Aires, but they have all been strongly condemned by the Press, and will probably be rejected by the Committees. The public are now looking with keen interest for the Government Bill on the same subject, which Dr Romero, the new National Finance Minister, has drawn up and will present to Congress in a few days. Nothing is positively known as yet of its provisions, but it is stated that one of its main features is to make the Provincial Bank of Buenos Aires, duly reconstructed, the basis of the new Bank of the Republic, and to resume specie payments within a few months. The National and Provincial Governments are in perfect accord on the measure and are acting in concert in the matter, so there is every probability of a practicable measure being laid before Congress. Possibly before the packet sails, we may be able to add some further intelligence on this point.

The city was startled yesterday morning by bad news from Montevideo where desperate riots, promoted by the Colorado party, took place on Friday night. During the week there had been a species of Ministerial crisis through the resignation of Colonel Santos, War Minister, owing to an 'esclandre' in which he grossly insulted one of the Criminal Judges, and the Superior Tribunal petitioned the Chambers to impeach him, which they refused to do. President Vidal also refused to accept his resignation, but he persists in it. On Friday his partizans marched through the streets of Montevideo, attacked several newspaper offices, shot one men dead, and threw the whole city into a fearful panic; the foreign Legations, especially the Argentine, were crowded with people seeking protection. Yesterday things were a little quieter, but the opinion in foreign circles here is that there will be no peace or order in Banda Oriental until Latorre resumes power, or some equally energetic man comes to the front there.

The progress of this country is every day more visible. New enterprises of all kinds are on foot, here and in the Interior, and the Customs receipts at all the ports, especially Buenos Aires, maintain figures never before known. The great movement, however, is in new estancia lands. North West and South new cattle farms are being bought and stocked, and cattle 'al corte' now fetch a price hitherto unheard of, so great is the demand. In the new Southern territory people who secured large tracts of National land but a year ago at £70 per sq. league, are now eagerly offered, but refuse, three, four and five times that price; Bahia Blanca and Patagones are the foci of this great land revival, and the numerous English estancieros in the South now find their properties increasing in value at a rate that will soon make millionaires of them all.

In reference to railway extension, we have equally favourable reports. That of the Andine Railway from Mercedes is rapidly nearing San Luis, under the brawny efforts of 2,500 navvies. The extension of the Tucuman Railway northwards to Jujuy was commenced a week ago, and work will begin on the branch to Santiago in about a month. Then there is the Chaco Railway, about which Dr. Lucas Gonzalez and Mr. Hume, C.E., left for London in the last steamer, a projected extension of the Western Railway from Pergamino to Rosario, and a mooted line by an English 'empresa,' from Bahia Blanca to San Luis. It will be seen that Land and Railways are the great topics of the day with the producers of the country.

The completion of the Drainage Works of this city, which have lain unfinished and neglected for some years, is now occupying attention. The conditions of the tenders called for by the Water Board to finish these works are severely handled in some of the papers, and many people fear some irreparable blunder is about to be made. Mr. Gabrielli, C.E., who built the Rio Water Works, is now in this city, and he will probably be consulted before any definite step is taken.

The report of Dr. Pizarro, Minister of Instruction, foreshadows important reforms in the Educational system of the country, which has recently been severely criticised by correspondents of this and other papers. The public are awakening to the fact that Primary Education has hitherto been sacrificed in order to turn out the far too plentiful crop of lawyers and other professional men with which the country is overrun.

The season for the sheepfarmers is proving most favorable, and the lambing is now nearly over; it is generally supposed that the increase in the flocks throughout the country will average 25 per cent, which will raise our stock of sheep to at least eighty millions, and as there has been scarcely any graseria killing, the wool clip next season will show

Greater attention is now paid to cattle farming than ever before in this country, and this is mainly due to the immense area of estancia land which the Rio Negro expedition has thrown on the market; nearly all our city men have bought lands from the Nat. Government, and those who can are stocking said lands; the result is obvious. In a few years the River Plate will boast of more cows and sheep than any other country in the world.

It will no doubt much interest our foreign readers to know that the R. Plate is rapidly returning to specie payments, and we think before the end of the year the 'oficina de Cambios will be re-opened.

Business in every branch was never brisker; prosperity smiles on the land, and we never remember a more prosperous period in this country.

DR. TEJEDOR'S BOOK.

(BY DR. PANGLOSS)

Buenos Aireans are improperly called Athenians, as, otherwise, an Aristophanes would have risen from some patrician source to dramatize the political events of the year 1880, described, somewhat like an Apology of Socrates, in Dr Tejedor's latest work. The stoic philosophy, or rather that of the cynic school, which characterized him so much and made him appear in such bold relief with the epicureans around him, has at last given way, and ingratitude, more so than misfortune, has broken the long silence since the memorable 30th of June 1880, when the patriotic legislature accepted his resignation by a surprising majority.

Dr Tejedor has again emerged from the obscurity of private life to the glare of public criticism. No one wishes to dwell on the past or utter one reproachful word, which might rankle in a wounded mind that cheished ambitions too lofty, and nurtured a character too haughty, to brook any democratical criticism. Far from recriminating, it is our heart-felt wish to apply balsam to the wound, and view the ex-Governor's acts, as related in this book, in the most favorable and candid light.

Political greatness is a very hazy distinction, as moderate brains insure success in a position which qualifies greatness. Dr Tejedor may console himself, when thinking of his political failure, as had the tables been turned, he would have been proclaimed a great man. Furthermore, statesmen never create situations; they are mere tools in the hands of destiny; borne along by events their mission is to follow same and turn them to the material advantage of the country; and above all nobody is perfect, and it is imperfection that moves our sympathies, when we contemplate the wreck of his party and of local ambitions.

Two books and one pamphlet have appeared of late on the political events that entailed that most unfortunate enterprise during the month of June last year, and we may characterize their authors as the dogmatic Alberdi, the stubborn Tejedor, and the metaphysical Lopez. Tejedor's book has the least claim on literature and history; his style is no doubt correct, but it is too severe, too plain and terribly monotonous. As regards the historical portion, he cannot write the history of which he actually himself was the principal actor. The book aims at one great object, and that is to prove that it is constitutional for a delegate of the National Government, such as is a Governor of a Province, to oppose its authority, import arms, mobilize National Guards and rebel against it. There is one remarkable fact, and it is that the author abhors the title of revolution and styles such an armed opposition as Defence. Nobody with his mind and heart in the right place will fail to see that these 200 pages are a mere apology for a revolution.

It is amusing to see the efforts of the author to make Dr. Avellaneda ridiculous; there is no room for ridicule over the bodies of 2000 men fallen during the rebellion, and the attempt only shows the metal of the man. In Dr Avellaneda he met a wily opponent, who turned all his acts to account. Through Tejedor Dr. Avellaneda kept the recalcitrant Deputies from Congress; through him he wrecked a powerful party, and finally through him he made Buenos Ayres the capital of the Republic. Verily, Dr. Tejedor deserves in this sense a golden medal; destiny prompted all his acts, and were it not for the unfortunate men who fell at the Puente Alsina, at the Corrales and at Olivera, we might say that Tejedor's opposition and rebellion were the greatest boon the country ever enjoyed.

The book, nevertheless, is a credit to the author, as it shows the sting of conscience which seizes the pen to exculpate acts that meet with disapprobation in every civilized community. Recriminations from him, there can be none, as he was the author of the evil and the responsible party. In spite of himself he shows his ruling ambition to seize the presidential reins, and he spared nothing to achieve his ends. He is only one of the very many instances of political incapacity, and his career only shows how deluded a man may become when passion blinds him, and his intelligence is of such a stamp as not to distinguish any criminality in plunging a country into civil war: Kent, Story, etc., and the host of commentators are brought forward to prove its innocence. No wonder revolutions were endemic in the Republic, when the very learning these men acquired were turned to prove the innocence and plausibility of armed rebellion. But of this anon; it is useless to open old sores, and were it not for the attempts to ridicule Dr Avellaneda and to attack Dr Alberdi, the book might be a tolerable production in the defence of a bad cause, although two hundred pages have been written to delude the people and money spent with a view to prove that what is wrong is right in the end. The book is on sale in the library of ex-Colonel Morales, one of the very few and noble characters, who played such an important role in the events of last June.

ROSARIO.

(From our own Correspondent.)

May 20th

The presidential term of General Roca will be signalized in Argentine history as the railway age. I remember a similar fever in North America Well, as Brother Jonathan would say 'let her slide.' Even at the risk of augmenting the list of non-paying lines, I say, let us have railways to open up the country and consequently make it more attractive to immigration. The Central Argentine was a long time working up to its seven per guarantee, and has cost the National Government some million and a half in making up said guarantee; but what a wonderful change that railway has operated in the country! Short sighted politician s grudged the few hundred thousands that now and then the Government disbursed; but laying aside the fact that these disbursements will all be returned by the Company, let us cast a retrospective glance on the country as it was at the commencement of the Central Argentine Railway. Let us look back, (and it seems a very short time ago), when Sandes and Arredondo were shooting the poor devils of rebels in Rioja and Mendoza. The interior provinces were known only by name, and the arrival of a troop of mules from San Juan, or a caravan of bullock carts from Cordoba and Tucuman, afforded a subject of conversation for the aboriginal Rosarinos for a week. When any unlucky wight was obliged to go to Cordoba or Mendoza, the projected journey was town talk for a fortnight beforehand; while a traveller arriving from the Interior was stared at in the streets, and his friends were mightily interested in his description of the dangers he had passed through. At that time the first of the Santa Fe colonies had been just created by Mr Castellano, with Swiss colonists, who, although as a general rule are not the best of our immigration, were for many years the only foreigners that could be induced to come up the Parana.

It seems but yesterday when your correspondent, accompanied by the principal gentlemen in Rosario, raised, with their own hands, the first rail out of the hold of the vessel, and carried it up the steep barranca, and planted it on the summit with an English and Argentine flag. The first rail of the Central Argentine Railway that touched Argentine soil! The first rail of that magnificent line that has had such a marvellous effect on eleven out of thirteen Argentine provinces. One simple paragraph will indicate the progress of the country. In the times I am speaking of, the revenue of the Custom House in Rosario was about a quarter of a million of dollars; it is now upwards of two millions. The revenue of the province was a hundred and fifty thousand Bolivians; now it is seven hundred thousand fuertes. In those days the arrival at a bullock 'tropa' from Tucuman was an 'acontecimiento.' Now trains arrive loaded with sugar; and hundreds of tons of silver from Bolivia are shipped from our port, and no one talks about it.

This truly wonderful state of things owes its origin simply to a National guarantee of 7 per cent and the donation of a hundred square leagues of then almost valueless lands. Thus we see that two of the most important railways of the country, the Central Argentine and the Great Southern, owe their origin to a 7 per cent guarantee, which in both cases will not have cost the National Government, in the long run, a single dollar, whilst it is not exaggerating if we say that they have increased the National Revenue five millions per annum.

Referring to an article in the Standard headed 'Grand Chaco Railway,' the writer, then in Buenos Ayres, hinted to you that he thought the name belonged to quite another enterprise, and promised to look up the requisite data. I can now give you some information on the subject. There is actually a company existing that is in possession of a concession of a grant of lands in both the provinces of Santiago and Santa Fe, and, I believe, in Cordoba, for the purpose of carrying a great broad gauge line from the Central Argentine Railway, through the colonies of Santa Fe and through the Chaco, to Santiago del Estero. I find also that a law was sanctioned by Congress ceding a guarantee of 7 per cent to this undertaking; and furthermore that the interested parties are now taking measures to carry out this grand scheme.

Of course all minor schemes of railways in Santa Fe and the Chaco have no importance whatever in the presence of that which I have just mentioned, which embraces every aspiration that the President of the Republic may have entertained for the opening up of that important region, the Gran Chaco. All other schemes might advantageously be amalgamated in this, for they all tend, though in a small way, to the same object. This splendid enterprise would obviate the necessity of a branch of the narrow gauge from the Northern line to Santiago, without detriment to that national line, which, while it remains a narrow gauge, will have quite enough to do if it affords transportation facilities to the region it passes through. The concession of a large area of the finest lands in Santiago and Cordoba gives the enterprise a solid basis, and the first section, carried through the densely populated colonies to the West of Santa Fe, will pay more than seven per cent from the first year.

I shall probably have more to tell the readers of the Standard on the subject of this Gran Chaco Railway, which starting from a point of the Central Argentine, will bring down to the port of Rosario the products of the North-East, and take up thousands of immigrants to populate those rich regions. This proposed line will just play into the hands of Messrs Murietta and Co., giving value to the land they have acquired from the Santa Fe Government.

CLIMATE OF LAS CONCHAS.

Having read a very interesting article in the Nacional of the 13th ult., entitled 'El manuscrito del Sr. Madero,' in which the author speaks highly of the sanitary condition of San Fernando, I trust that a few observations on the climate of Las Conchas will not be uninteresting, as they are the expression of my conviction, a conviction that I arrived at as the result of study and observation during a long residence in that district.

Las Conchas is situated in latitude 35° 4′ south, on the banks of a river of the same name, a branch of the majestic Lujan. It is a small district and a delightful and healthy locality: it contains about three thousand inhabitants. The village is built on a soil which is composed principally of clay and sand, and extends to a short distance along the river. It is about twenty miles from the city of Buenos Aires. The houses are well built, the grounds are tastefully laid out, and the gardens and orchards are all that can be imagined as beautiful and romantic. The soil is remarkably porous, so that no artificial drainage is required, and there are no ditches within some distance from it. The pluvial rains run off principally by infiltration: the heavy rain falls may be seen running, in numerous streams, along the land into the river, and in some places the water oozes out of its banks into it. There are occasional 'mareas' or overflowings of the river, which cover the soil to a depth of several feet, but they are of short duration, and disappear with remarkable rapidity. The village presents a similar aspect on these occasions, as the city of Venice, as all the land and houses are under water.

The great porosity of the soil, the rapidity with which the moisture dries up, and the exuberant vegetation of every kind, all combine in giving great dryness to the atmosphere, and show that, notwithstanding the general opinion of the dampness of Las Conchas, there is no place less exposed to it. It has been observed, and I can confirm it, that though the south west winds necessarily contain a great deal of moisture, the effects of the constant evaporation from the rivers, it is in a minutely divided and insensible state, in which condition it does not perceptibly affect the animal organization in the same way that though the atmosphere contains a much larger quantity of moisture in the summer than during the winter, it is considerably drier during the former period, as the moisture is intimately mixed up with it, while during the winter the moisture is condensed by the cold into fogs, mists and vapours, which sensibly affect the feelings.

The air of Las Conchas has a tonic effect on the system: the temperature in the summer and autumn is less high, more equal and steady than in more inland districts, arising from the balmy breezes from the rivers; an important fact in the condition of a climate, inasmuch as there is less predisposition to disease.

There are several beautiful islands at a short distance from Las Conchas through which the river Lujan runs and bathe s its banks. In these secluded spots which, in its evergreen luxuriance, in the variety of fruit-bearing trees, watermelon fields and sweet, balmy air, may be looked upon as a garden of Eden there are many cottages built among shady rows of lofty poplars, with orange and lemon groves, watered by the island streams which glide along the banks, presenting in their course many pretty falls with corresponding pools or basins, worn in the soil, which are used as baths of running water.

There are few diseases in the district of Las Conchas. The 'malaria' so general on the banks of rivers, in countries with an evergreen luxuriance, and which affects its inhabitants with periodical fevers, is here unknown. There are none of those epidemical diseases so fatal and prevalent in large towns; not one has been seen from time immemorial, save that of the cholera, which invaded the country in 1867. The aspect of the natives indicate that they enjoy the best of all blessings—a good constitution and perfect health. These are well-known facts and cannot be questioned: it is the evidence that there are few spots on the globe where Nature has bestowed such a healthy climate as that in the district of Las Conchas.

John H. Scrivener, M.D.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Our Packet Edition for the French mail steamer Gironde, which will sail on Tuesday next, is included in this issue.

The old story. People had hardly finished their breakfast yesterday when the news of the rumpus in Montevideo on Friday night came up. We give the telegrams in another column. The mob were all Santos's men, and they sacked three newspaper offices and shot one poor inoffensive printer dead. Mr Daniel Muñoz managed to escape in disguise, but he was driving about the town yesterday, and nobody will be surprised if he 'come to judgment,' or something worse, There was such a panic in the city that the Chambers were afraid to meet, but yesterday there was comparative quiet, although intense anxiety. Wanted, a Latorre.

All our leading colleagues are unanimous in their favourable verdict on the Colon opera company, and equally of accord as to the sufferings of the drums of their ears through the awful discord created by the brass band on the stage in the triumphal march. A seaside 'fanfare' at Bray or Brighton is Harmony itself compared with it.

There are several new tramway projects before the Provincial Chambers—one for a line from Plaza Once to Exaltacion de la Crux. All sent to Committee.

The Villarino has now on board, for the telegraph line between Bahia Blanca and Patagones, 3,000 iron posts, isolators, 300 kilometres of wire, instruments, &c. Everything is ready at Bahia Blanca to begin the work, which is under the direction of Mr. Cayol. In two months it will be completed.

The Chubut schooner Gwenllian cleared yesterday for the colony taking general cargo, 33 Welsh emigrants and a young lady governess for one of the principal families in the colony.

We have again the pleasure of warmly recommending this week's Moda to the attention of our lady readers.

Dr Francis P. Moreno, the distinguished explorer, is expected in the French steamer Congo, which will arrive next week.

The most curious incident in connection with the Chios earthquake was the escape of Hodcha-Achmed, a Turk, who was an inmate of the State prison there for having translated the Bible into Turkish. The last shock felt tumbled the prison; all the other prisoners were killed, but the translator of the Bible did not receive a scratch; he walked to the port and took the first steamer for foreign parts.

In the midst of their political ructions at Montevideo, they never forget to lay on taxes. An additional light-house tax has now been put on steamers—95 dollars per trip and 3 cents per ton on ocean steamers and 25 dollars per trip on those from Brazil.

The Rosario papers announce a rise of 5 per cent in the shares of the Provincial Bank of Santa Fe. They ought to be quoted on the Bolsa here, where anything with even a remnant of a rise in it would be equally welcome to the brokers and the guttersnipes.

The Platea gives a very good portrait of the great actress Boccomini.

The Santa Rosa and Salto Railway company has called for tenders for 100,000 sleepers. This looks like business at last.

We have received the following somewhat enthusiastic critique on the acting of Madame Boccomini at the Opera House, but from all we hear she cannot be too highly praised:—

"On Friday night a most interesting drama was performed at the Opera House to a very thin house, nevertheless the audience appeared to appreciate more than usually that great artist La Boccomini, indeed her acting on that occasion surpassed all her former triumphs. I have never seen any actress to approach her since Rachel in her best days. It matters not whether it be comedy or tragedy, her acting is simply perfection. It may happen that the Porteno public will only commence to believe in her incomparable talents after she has been recognized in Europe as a star of the greatest brilliancy; it was the case with Salvini and Gayarre who certainly never had such undoubted claims as this lady for histrionic art. In all her attitudes you see perfect pictures. No music can equal her voice, her smiles are never to be forgotten, and as for her sobs and tears they are simply heartrending. Some great ovation is in store for this incomparable artist; and if everyone appreciated her in accordance with her merits, the rest of her career would be one series of continual ovations. The other artists support her in the ablest manner, and deserve the applause they receive every night."

The grand Funeral Mass for the late Bishop of Montevideo, ordered by the National Government, will be celebrated at the Cathedral tomorrow at 11 o'clock.

We regret to announce the death of Don Patricio Lynch, head of the distinguished family of the name in this city. The funeral takes place to-day. The venerable deceased was in his 92nd year.

Two Argentine men-of-war are ordered to Montevideo to protect the citizens of this republic living there, in case there should be further disturbances, which is very much more than probable. A crowd of Montevideans are expected in the steamer that arrives this morning. When the patriotic business is once fairly started down there, it is a much more serious affair than here, in the way of unnecessary violence, etc.

The child actress, Gemma Cuniberti, will declaim the Argentine National Hymn in Spanish, on the 25th inst., in the Politeama.

We publish in another column an interesting communication from Dr. Scrivener on that charming locality Las Conchas. We cannot, from want of space, publish the meteorological table and other observations which the gifted author makes on the climate of Las Conchas, which seems to us just the place (always second to Bahia Blanca) for the future capital of this province.

The English Literary Society announce a Musical and Dramatic Entertainment for Friday evening next. These reunions are always most welcome to the British community, and are always very well carried through.

If our readers want a treat they can go to see the prizes for the Zingari Cricket Club Athletic Sports, to be held on May 25th inst. The prizes are as good as any we have seen in Buenos Aires. In the most flourishing days of the old club the prizes seldom came up to these. We are happy to say that some very splendid ones have been presented by some of our leading commercial houses to the club. We advise all our readers not to fail to go on Monday morning and inspect these splendid prizes. They will be on view at Messrs. Burgos and Co.'s on that day and Tuesday.

The 'Picnic' annually prepared for the children belonging to St. John's Sunday School, will be held on the 25th. The children of the school and those friends of it who would like to pass the day with them, are requested to meet at the school-room at 9.30 on said morning, where their railway tickets can be procured, and from which place the 'picnic' begins. We may mention that everything is being done that is possible for diverting the children, for which this school has its reputation. The usual collection will be taken up at this morning's Service at St. John's Church for the paying of expenses connected with this treat.

We have to thank our talented and esteemed friend, Dr. Zeballos, for a copy of his 'Trip to the Araucanian Country,' which we anticipate the greatest pleasure in reading.

We salute our most useful colleague, La Revista de Ganaderia on its attaining its second anniversary, and wish it many more. $15,243,773,182 m/c is given by the Review as the total value of all the estancias, stock, chacras, and all other rural properties in this province. Stupendous! Prodigious!

There was a duel in San Nicolas, the other day in which the combatants fired five shots at each other at fifteen paces without either getting a scratch. Honour was satisfied and nobody was hurt. There can be no reasonable objection to this kind of duelling.

The gold market, spite of everything rules very hard, and notwithstanding that Minister Romero's project was pretty generally known, gold for cash only dropped five cents. Gold opened at 28.60 and closed at 28.55; cash sales 139,318 pats. For the end of the month prices ruled firmer than for cash, closing at 28.55, but on long dates there was a regular let down in the market, and for July, August and September gold was sold at 27.95, which breaks the despotic figure of 28. The sales of the day amounted to 994,318 pats.

Cedulas caved in to-day on the strength of a new project to help the Bank. As a rule these projects always injure the stock, although brought in with a view to help it. The present project is to authorise the Bank to sell the building, a measure legitimate enough in its way, but in case the building cannot be sold, then the Bank to issue Cedulas on it, which seems to us so absurdly ridiculous that it strikes many the great bear interest, and those who have sold the stock short, have something to do with the scheme; a member of the Legislature on 'Change laughed at the project and said it would share the fate of all the other projects.

Meanwhile under the impress of this project news 150,000 Cedulas were sold for June, and such very heavy sales stumbled the market, prices dropping from 98 to 97. Sales made for the end of December at 98½. The total sales of Cedulas for the day amounted to 234,000; a rather heavy day's business.

National Bank Shares rule firm but dull; scarcely any sold, all the market for the moment being into gold and Cedulas.

Tramway Belgrano Shares very buoyant; sales cash at 70 and 73, and on time at 70.

It was announced on 'Change that yesterday the National Government paid the Eastern Argentine Railway £105,000 s/g., and some said that exchange was taken in the market for the amount; such we believe is not the case; the payment is made in London for account of the Argentine Government, and the Minister, when the Loan Bond is signed, will hand the first bills for the amount; the whole business was arranged here through one of our private banks. The General Bond, we believe, was signed to-day in Paris, and next week the Argentine Government will draw against the Loan.

A meeting of creditors of a large almacero firm was held at the Bolsa upstairs this afternoon, they said on 'Change that the affair does not amount to a suspension, as the chief creditors arrange to carry on the business.

Further telegrams from Havre received to-day and will be found in another column; wool news from Havre bad, from London good.

The Death of Don Patricio Lynch was announced and caused widespread regret; deceased was of Irish descent and one of our wealthiest property holders to died ripe in years.

The gold market at afternours held its own, buyers 28.50, sellers 28.55, there was nothing fresh about the loan, but it was said that the Argentine Minister pays here to-day the representative of East Arg. Railway, £108,000, and no exchange whatever in the business; from Paris nothing new.

The auction of Townhill was largely attended, but the horse was not sold. He was put up at 50,000 m/c, no bid; the other thoroughbreds sold, the colt for 18,000 to Gen. Campos, and the fillies at 15,000 each.

Exchange has at last advanced and over £10,000 passed to-day at 49d.

M. Fouerst, chief engineer of Cunapiru gold mines, was welcomed on Change, also M Hanon, Secretary of the same important Company, they both leave for Rioja on business of importance.

The news from Montevideo was given about in bulletin, people don't like the look of things down there, and some frightened telegrams came up this afternoon. It seems Latorre has a party there, but Santos none.

The new bank directors they say, will be Mr E. Madero, Dr Villamayor and Dn Angel Martinez. Mr Madero's return to the bank is welcomed by the whole market.

Nat. Bank shares firm at afternours but very little done, 94½ for end of month. Cedulas after the shake in the morning steadied. The bear project before the legislature is much commented on.

Telegrams from Rio give exchange up there to 21⅜; bills passed here at 11.250. We note that in Rio now they quote exchange on New York, which is an innovation.

On Monday Minister Romero's project, with message from National Government, goes to Congress. The matter is watched with immense interest. We believe the scheme will be carried out, and Curso Forzoso finally abolished.

At the Minister of Hacienda office this evening the representative of the Eastern Arg. Railway, Mr Thompson received Treasury bills in payment of the guarantee due up to 31st Dec. 1879 amounting to $527,040 gold. This closes this business.

Yesterday the Bank discounted but little; several applications made for gold discounts, but none attended to.

The latest London papers publish the following Eastern Argentine Railway notice—

The largest real estate sale in South America is reported in the Chilian papers; the purchaser Mr Lambert, who passed here in his yacht last year:—

"The Santiago correspondent of the Mercurio writes as follows respecting the purchase, by Mr Lambert, of the Culipran estate:—'A great deal has been said in Santiago respecting the purchase, by the opulent Mr Lambert, from Don Ladislao Larrain, of the Culipran estate and the irrigation canal for the large sum of 600,000 dollars cash. The price of the ground is 65,000 dollars only, while that of the canal is 535,000. The canal is capable of supplying four hundred 'regadores', with a never failing source of supply from the river Maipo, and it was constructed by Sr. Larrain Larrain in 1870/74. The grand importance of this transaction consists in the fact that the canal can be made to supply the estates of Popeta, San Pedro, and the plains on the coast in the department of Rancagua as far as Bucalemu and the sea, so that if Mr Lambert should subsequently purchase those lands, he could bring under cultivation upwards of 20,000 'cuadras' [80,000 acres] at present entirely uncultivated."

"The West Coast Telegraph Co. (Limited), now operating cables to Peru, has completed arrangements to connect with the Central and South American Cable Co., via Panama, Central America, Mexico and the U. States, to Europe, saving 8,000 miles of transmission and about $6 per word on business between points in the U. States and the West Coast of South America, over the route now used, which is via Brazil and Portugal."

The Valparaiso papers give the following—

"The friends of Mr George Wilson, here and abroad, will regret to hear of his death, in Limache, on the 18th instant. Mr Wilson arrived in Chile in 1835, and at the time of his death was 65 years of age.

"Shortly after eleven o'clock on Tuesday night, a fire broke out in a candle and soap factory in the calle de Chacabuco. The establishment, which was insured for $10,000 in the Northern, $4,000 in the Hamburg-Bremense, and $7,500 in the Liverpool, London & Globe, was gutted, and some of the adjoining buildings sustained considerable damage. The origin of the fire is unknown.

"The world-renowned conjurer Herrmann arrived on Thursday in the Cordillera, and gives his first performance to-night, in the Odeon theatre. The second performance will take place to-morrow. Lovers of the art of legerdemain ought not to lose the opportunity now presented, of witnessing the performances of the universally admitted greatest prestidigiator of the day."

LATEST FROM CHILE.

Valparaiso, April 23rd, 1881

The state of affairs in Peru in relation to Chile has been under consideration by the President and his advisers during some days past, but as yet no definite resolution appears to have been arrived at, which is not surprising, the question being, as it is, surrounded with difficulties of no ordinary kind. In the consideration of this very important matter the President has been assisted not only by the Cabinet, but also by several notabilities, including three gentlemen who held portfolics in the last Ministry, señor Altamirano, señor Godoy, ex-Minister to Peru, and the commissary-general of the army and navy, señor Davila Larrain. The earnestness and care with which this vital question is being considered, no less than the able men whom the President has called to his aid in this emergency, constitute a guarantee that no false step will be taken in the course which may be finally resolved upon. What that course is likely to be, may be inferred on the whole from the principal points which have been debated, and the opinions expressed thereon. These points, according to the most reliable information we possess are: Whether, taking into consideration the very slender probabilities that anything approaching to a stable form of Government will be established in Peru within a reasonable period of time, with which to treat of peace, it is advisable or not to continue to occupy militarily Lima, Callao, and other places, or whether the action of Chile should be confined to the occupation of the Tacna and Moquegua line, and to the blockade of the principal ports of Peru. In the latter case the army could be reduced to a number sufficient for the defence of that line, or to operate, in case of necessity against any part of the enemy's territory.

From what has transpired respecting the discussion on the preceding points, it appears that the withdrawal of the army of occupation from Lima, Callao and other places was unanimously condemned on various grounds. It was argued that the withdrawal of the army would be a retrograde movement tantamount to a retreat, which, while it would undoubtedly be productive of the most disastrous results to Peru itself, would be interpreted by the enemies of Chile as a sign of weakness, and would damage her in the opinion of neutral powers. It was further argued that the economy that would be obtained by the reduction of the army in the event of the adoption of the second point of the question would be insignificant when compared with the unfavorable results that would ensue from the proposed reconcentration of forces on the Tacna and Moquegua line. If, urged the counsellors, it were necessary to maintain an army ready to enter upon a campaign at any moment, it was preferable that it should be stationed in the very heart of the country occupied, and not on its frontier. Some were of opinion that instead of limiting the sphere of the military action of this country it should be extended, until all the Peruvian coast should be subjected to the Chilian arms, in order that the contributions of war might be distributed among a greater number of towns.

Upon the capital point of the question, that is, the disoccupation of Lima and other places, there appears to have been no divergence of opinion, but it has been proposed to replace the military administration by a civil one, supported by the army of occupation, in the belie that by this method tranquillity would be restored and trade would revive, and by this means a considerable revenue would be obtained towards defraying the expenses of occupation. It is also argued by the supporters of the substitution of a civil for a military administration that this plan would permit of a considerable economy being effected in the cost of maintenance of the army, and of a reduction in the number of the army itself, which would finally result in the revenues of the territories occupied being sufficient for the requirements of the army of occupation without it being necessary to have recourse to forced contributions of war. The supporters of this opinion further argue that an administration such as they propose would permit of this country waiting calmly for the hour when the enemy might be in a position or be inclined to enter into a treaty of peace.

"Such," says the Ferro-Carril, from which we have summarized the foregoing particulars, "are the opinions which have prevailed in the Moneda, as far as we can gather from the most reliable reports in circulation. Nevertheless, no definite conclusion was reached upon the policy to be adopted, and it is probable that the deliberations will be continued with the same or other counsellors."

The Chilian bark 21 de Mayo arrived yesterday week from Callao, bringing a large quantity of war materials, machinery, etc., and last, but not least, the celebrated painting of Atahualpa, which has been stated to have cost the Peruvian Government 25,000 soles.

The transport Chile arrived from Callao last Saturday bringing sick soldiers and men on furlough.

The torpedo boat Guacolda, taken from the Peruvians, was lost off Pisco while in tow of the Pisagua, during a fresh breeze. The Fresia, which was also in tow of the same vessel, had to be cast off.

The British bark Lauretta, from Supe for England with a cargo of sugar, put in here on the 15th leaky.

The following dispatch from Colonel Lagos, commander-in-chief of the army of occupation in Peru, was received by H.E. the President on 16th instant:—

"Nothing new in the army. The sanitary condition leaves nothing to fear. A few days ago a guerilla band of 400 men appeared in the vicinity of Chosica, plundering farms. I sent forces in pursuit and they have returned after completely dispersing the band, killing and wounding many and taking two prisoners. On our part we had three soldiers killed and seven wounded. Nothing new in the forces operating in the department of La Libertad. It has been deemed necessary to occupy the ports of Eten, Pimentel and Pacasmayo, and also the cities of Chiclayo and Lambayeque. The Amazonas has not yet returned from her excursion north.

The yacht Wanderer, Mr Charles Lambert sailed on the 13th for Coquimbo, en route for England, across the Pacific and Indian Oceans and through the Suez Canal.

Telegraphic communication, by cable, was reestablished between Valparaiso and Callao on the 13th.

The capture of the Peruvian archives in Lima is bringing many curious affairs to light, and when all the documents are arranged and printed the contents of the collection will be a surprise for the world in general. In a letter dated Panama, March 31st, 1880, the Peruvian consul at Panama advises the Secretary of War that he has drawn upon him for £2,000 in favour of Captain P. C. Petrie. ('Tambien jiro a tres dias de vista y a favor del señor capitan P. C. Petrie por la suma de £2,000 (dos mil libra esterlinas).') The Peruvian consul-general in New York, J. C. Tracy, in a letter, dated September 21st, 1889, is glad to say that the draft in favour of Captain Stedman is paid, and that the state of affairs is improved thereby. ('Desde luego, para satisfaccion de todos, conviene decir que la letra del Sr Larke para el capitan Stedman esta pagada y esto mejora mucho la situacion en todos conceptos.') A Mr G. A. Burt, the superintendent of the Panama Railway, also appears to have been a recipient of the golden favors of Peru, the consul at Panama having drawn in his favor on the Secretary of War for 4,00o incas; 2,500 for services rendered by Mr Burt in the shipment per Enriqueta, and 1,500 do. do. per Elvira. Mr Burt, who is described by the Peruvian consul as the man for the shipment of war materials in Panama, wished to be paid, in cash, in that city, but Mr Ehrman, says the consul, flatly refused to advance a cent on behalf of the Peruvian Government although he had received 15,000 dollars to defray the expenses of the shipment per Enriqueta and Elvira. Further disclosures of a similar nature may be expected to follow very shortly.

Importantisimo, leer esto

La practica nos ha ensenado, como asi mismo las indicaciones de nuestra amistosa clientela, que no debe lanzarse a remate ninguna propiedad de cuya bondad de titulos no tenga la casa confianza y seguridad absoluta, por cuya razon hemos trabajado mas de dos meses hasta reunir toda la documentacion necesaria para presentar en venta esta zona importante de tierra, sin que los interesados tengan necesidad a pedir datos.

Hemos impreso un folleto, que contiene; 1º El plano de Santa Fe y su vecina Santiago del Estero. 2º El informe del Gobernador de la Provincia, declarando "ser propiedad de los Canepa el campo a venderse, acompañando copia legalizada de la ley que autorizo la venta y reconocendoles el derecho a su enagnacion. 3º Carta del Señor Obligado que ha recorrido los campos durante ance) determinando su ubicacion, buena calidae, ventajas de su adquisicion, condiciones, etc. etc. 4º Planos del campo a venderse, con determinacion de lotes y la ubicacion de todas las importantes colonias con que se avecinan 5º Nomina de los linderos y establecimientos importantes inmediatos. 6º Informe escrito del estudio he ho de todos los documentos y titulos por el acreditado escribano Sr. D. Victoriano Cabral, que los declara inmejorables; y finalmente todo lo pertinente al conocimiento de lo que debe adquirirse.

Este folleto, ass como las entradas para el lunch, se entregaran en nuestra casa a las personas que se dignen venir a solicitarlo.

Pormenores

Estos campos distan solo 5 leguas de las colonias Sanchales y Espin [suizo] y 7 o 10 de las estancias de Escalada, Ramallon, Coronel Obligado y hermano, Dr Pedro Palacios, Banco de Londres, Coronel Lacueva, Coronel Jabson. Lindan a mas con los Sra W Paste y Ca, Dr Lawsen, Meyer, Ozsiza, Duchiwitz, Altgelt, Napp, Loisseau, Bonorme, Newton, Mulhall y otros, que adquieren en la misma forma hacen diez anos.

La traza del ferro carril de Santa Fe a Santiago, cruza estos campos y se radicara una o dos estaciones en ellas.

En la base fijada, no se habran puesto en venta campos mas baratos y si se habran adquirido jamas mejores como calidad, pues el Sr Coronel Obligado dice en su informe que son SUPERIORES a los del Sud de Cordoba y a los del Departamento del Rosario.

Hay campos linderos, que se han vendido (y mostraremos el certificado) a 3000 $fts. la legua.

En la colonia Espin, donde existen mas de 150 familias fundada por el Sr Benitez, se venden las concesiones a 206 $fts de solo 20 cuadras, luego la legua ha producido ya mil onzas de oro, en 80 concesiones.

Los campos estan mensurados judicialmente perfectamente amojonados con grandes postes de nandubay.

Hoy dia, la casa bancaria de los Sra Murrieta en Londres, esta recibiendo los campos del Chaco, del Gobierno de Santa Fe, en pago del emprestito a razon de 1500 $f. por legua, y estos son superiores y mas cerca de la capital.

Para terminar: la familia Canepa, es propietaria en el Rosario y esto redobla la garantia.
